From our younger days we all have an aim. We live to accomplish that aim. The reason for studying by going to school is to accomplish that aim. We face exams, competitions to make our lives more beautiful in the future.

As I'm just 15 years old yet I can't imagine about me in another 10 years time. I study hard at present to make my future a beautiful one. My aim is to be an engineer in another 10 years time. And I do my best to achieve it. Not only that the place I live must be a good one too.

At present the whole world is a bad place to live. There is war in every part of it. In my country Tamils and Sinhalese fight for the land. In the Middle East people kill each other for their religion. Some powerful countries develop dangerous weapons like Atomic bombs to show that they are powerful. Although now it is better than the Second World War time, the world is still in danger.

I want to be in a world free of wars in 10 years time. Humans of different races and different religions will be living like brothers. All the people will be considered the same. I want to live in a world of freedom and in a world without fences. I want to live in a country in which politicians are doing service to the country.

At present number of animal species extinct every day. Huge numbers of trees are cut down. We can only see cement buildings around. I want to live in a beautiful world full of trees and animals. Animals will have freedom to go anywhere they like. People will get used to be kind to them. People won't drink alcohol nor smoke. A place free of alcohol and cigarettes is the best place to live. I want to live in a beautiful place with friendly people in another ten years time.

A world without terrorists, alcohol and war will be the best place to live but it will be only a dream if we won't do anything and just wait. People must be advised about the results of cutting trees and killing animals. Alcohol and cigarettes must be prohibited. Small children must be educated about these things at school. Everyone must respect elders and their parents. Through their experience and advice the world which I dreamed of will be a reality.

As a result I will be able to live in a world where people respect each other's religions and will be friendly. It will be a green world full of trees and animals. In the world I dream of people will live with self control so the diseases like HIV AIDS won't spread.

People will be much developed than present. I want to be in a developed world where scientists use their abilities for the betterment of the people. They would be able to cure cancers. They will answer a number of mysteries too. Although it will be very developed there won't be any weapons. There will be flowers in their hands instead of them.

All along this essay I have described about a place where I want to be and what it should look like. It is actually a sweet dream. People lived and fought against each other for thousands of years. So how can they change in just ten years? Anyone would like to live in such a place which I described. Don't give up. We should try hard to make a world with flowers instead of weapons. We should try hard to stop alcohol and smoking. We should try hard to live like brothers and sisters. Then the world will be free of wars, weapons, alcohol and this is the world in which I want to be in another 10 years time.
